

Charity Fundraisers - Graduate opportunities and holiday jobs
£8.50-£13.50 (London) £7.50-£12.50 (all other cities)

At Gift we say no to the corporate world and selling your soul to an employer you'll hate. Our team are out on the street, in the fresh air, meeting hundreds of people - and raising a small fortune for leading charities. We can be a short-term option after Uni while you consider your future. We can be your stepping stone into the charity sector. We can be a holiday job. We could even be your long-term career choice - all of our management started as fundraisers. So join us in the fight against desk job drudgery. Street fundraising is an incredibly enjoyable, sociable and worthwhile job. You work outside all day, meeting hundreds of new people and earning a small fortune for good causes. It's also the perfect start to a career in the charity sector, which is famously hard to break into. Many graduates have built up experience at Gift, then catapulted themselves into fundraising or campaigning roles at leading charities. Others have risen through the ranks into senior management at Gift. Even as a holiday job or short-term option after Uni, fundraising can equip you with skills and experience that will look great on your CV.
