Head of the Office of Climate Change

c£100,000*

Projections and predictions may vary, but the reality of climate change is undeniable fact — the time to act is now. As Head of this new Office, you will have an important role in helping Ministers and their Departments develop Government analysis, strategy and policy. Drawing on your extensive senior level experience and using well developed influencing skills to gain consensus and momentum in complex environments, you will develop the Office into a shared resource for Ministers Government-wide.
